Dubnium

Db

105

Discovered 1968-1970

Discovered by Scientists at both Berkeley, USA, and Dubna, Russia

This radioactive metal is only used in research

The element is named after Dubna, the Russian town

The Russians called it neilsbohrium, while the Americans called it hahnium. IUPAC solved this dispute by calling it Dubnium