

Nitrogen

N

7

Discovered in 1772

Discovered by Scottish physician Daniel Rutherford

Around 78% of air we breathe contains Nitrogen

Nitrogen was named after mineral niter by French chemist Jean-Antoine Chaptal in 1790

Saturn's largest moon, Titan, is the only moon in the solar system with a dense atmosphere. Its atmosphere consists of over 98% nitrogen.