

Discovered in 1811

Discovered by Bernard Courtois

Iodine was once obtained from seaweed

The name derives from the Greek
'iodes', meaning
violet

Iodine

53

Photography is the first commercial use of Iodine. In 1839, Louis Daguerre invented a technique to produce images using Iodine